Lottery Dollars at Work

The Lottery provides significant funding every year to its beneficiaries. We believe our role as a responsible corporate citizen goes beyond those mandatory returns. Annually, we dedicate a portion of our advertising budget to support civic and charitable causes across Arizona. This year, you will see the Arizona Lottery as a program sponsor at ASU Gammage and Ballet Arizona. We recently participated in a conference dedicated to ending homelessness, and another conference assisting cities and towns to find solutions in this challenging economy. We supported the United Way in both Pima and Pinal counties, and you'll see us listed as a sponsor of Yuma's Lettuce Days in January. Just like our beneficiaries, community-minded organizations like these share our commitment to making our great state an even better place for all Arizonans!

A Message from the Lottery

When I was a child, before our Thanksgiving meal was served, we would each share something for which we were thankful. If you couldn't come up with something quickly, every other person at the table glared — you were holding up the feast!

If the Lottery had a Thanksgiving table—with seating for our 100 employees—we'd all know what to mention. We're grateful for our players, who generously share their stories of playing—and winning—with us. We're grateful for our beneficiaries, who are wise stewards of the funding the Lottery provides, and are making a difference in every community across our beautiful state. And we're especially grateful for our retailers. For many players, our 2700 retailers are the face of the Lottery. They sell our products, pay our winners, and take the time to explain how to play our games. Without our retailers, there would be no Lottery.

On behalf of the entire Lottery team, I'd like to extend our best wishes to you and your family this Thanksgiving. We invite you to take a moment to think about what—or who—you are most grateful for. And hold onto that thought, just in case you get asked to Thanksgiving dinner!

Community Events

The Lottery is proud to be a sponsor of the Arizona Food Marketing Alliance's annual "Excellence in Leadership Awards" Banquet. This organization represents the interests of more than 1,100 grocery stores, and more than 100 suppliers.

Many of our 2,700 retailer partners are members of AFMA; the Lottery has been a long-time sponsor of this event. Almost 1,000 guests attend the event, and the Lottery is especially honored to have past award winners as our guests. Each year, this event recognizes a Retailer of the Year, a Supplier of the Year, and an inductee into the organization's Hall of Fame.

Our congratulations to this year's winners, who represent some of this industry's guiding forces. The Arizona Lottery is proud to work with AFMA members who everyday create a positive in-store experience for our players.
